This is another podcast from one of the many podcasts that I like to listen to. This one is from the I Had to Say It podcast.

Listening to this episode might get you on a watch list

Don't say I didn't warn you. Leaked FBI documents basically stated that all of the "they are targeting us" people were right. They have a list of things that they consider possible flags for being a domestic terrorist. Things like believing in the 2nd amendment, wanting small government, quoting the founding fathers, talking about when the feds killed a woman holding her baby at a standoff over the length of a shotgun barrel. Ya know, all of those horrible things that endanger all of the people around you. Basically anything that you would have discussed in a history or civics class back in the 90's. Also I will talk about the bill that the white house has put forward to "combat inflation" that is really more about targeting the dwindling middle class. Also why I don't care that whats-her-face got nine years for a THC vape in Russia.
