This is another podcast from one of the many podcasts that I like to listen to. This one is from the I Had to Say It podcast.

Mass Shootings, media, and the recession

So there was another mass shooting, I talk about that some. I complain about the media trying to turn us against each other. I complain about the incompetence of the government, and how I feel about that. So pretty much the usual. The feedback lines are always open. Interested in guesting on the show? Have something you just gotta get off your chest? Reach out, you might be surprised in the results.

Also my usual recommendations.
