I'm in Vegas today. I'm giving a speech tomorrow with my good friend Mark Green about how to use Real Estate as a hedge against inflation. I'll be speaking to a large group of real estate professionals and I'm going to try to drop enough knowledge on them, with enough clarity so they can go home and better advise their customers and clients.

This an exciting time and the weather here is a balmy 102. :-)

Today I have Eric Brakey on the show. He's running for US Senate in Maine and he's a close to a libertarian as you're going to find running under a Republican flag.

I don't care how we get liberty-minded people into Congress as long as we're doing it. Eric seems like a great choice.

So give it a listen and don't forget to donate to the show if you haven't already.
