This is another podcast from one of the many podcasts that I like to listen to. This one is from the I Had to Say It podcast.

Viva la Libertad Carajo!

This one is a little different. But only a little, Recorded kind of last minute this is literally something that just happened and I need to talk about it. Javier Milei won the presidency in Argentina. If you don't know who he is google it. The videos pretty much speak for themselves. This guy is what we need. He can show the way, assuming that he can deliver what he was elected on. The MSM is comparing him to Trump, almost non-stop. Other than they are both outsiders with very large personalities, this is fundamentally wrong. Unlike the cheeto, who said he was going to make the government work, Milei has said that the government doesn't work, and he is going to tear it down. Slashing government spending and bureaucratic nonsense to return the control to the people. I really hope he does, and the rest of the world sees that it can be done.
