I'm still in Las Vegas. It's been great to get away for a few days and I just finished my presentation with my good friend Mark Green at the Real Estate Mastermind event at the Palms Casino.

He and I spoke about inflation, interest rates, government shenanigans and how mortgage lenders need to change the way they do business if they want to survive and thrive as the industry changes.

The truth is, all industries are changing...constantly. Your life is changing constantly. If you're not adapting you're going to get screwed.

So today I thought I'd take some of the principles I shared on the stage and see if I can apply them to you and your life.

Enjoy!
