This is another podcast from one of the many podcasts that I like to listen to. This one is from the I Had to Say It podcast.

Pain at the pump and the coming conflicts

Gas is expensive, we all know this. I am tired of the people trying to justify it to defend their poor choices in elected officials. I am tired of people pointing to other countries to try and justify what is happening here. I am tired of what is looking like deliberate incompetency in our so called leaders that is only pushing towards inevitable conflicts. In this episode I rant about all of it.
